

Abstract

This invention relates to a method for producing a ceramic fiber (22) with a metal coating (24)—a reinforcing fiber (20). According to this invention, the metal coating (24) is converted to an exterior shape having a polygonal cross section, permitting a structure of reinforcing fibers (20) arranged side-by-side and above one another without leaving any cavities.

(FIG 1)